

Clark, Stephen P.

MARSHALL - Stephen P. Clark, age 53, of Marshall, Wis., died Thursday, July 12, 2001, at St. Marys Hospital after a short illness. He was born October 16, 1947, in New Brunswick, N.J., and moved to Madison in 1950. He graduated from Madison West High School and UW-Madison. He married Jean E. (Harris) Clark, on April 3, 1982, in Madison. Steve worked as an artist since graduating from college. He worked for two private companies, and was self-employed part time as an artist until October 1994, when he started his own business - Woodhaven Sign and Design. He had a chance to use more of his skills and talents there, making various signs and designing. He enjoyed camping, canoeing, hiking, gardening, photography and oil painting landscapes. He loved his Canadian getaway in Ontario, and traveling to Midwestern waterfalls. Steve will be missed by family and friends. He is survived by his wife, Jean of Marshall; his mother, Louise (Sassman) Clark of Madison; two brothers, Charles Dougald (Nada) Clark of Watertown, and John Roderick (Melanie Werth) Clark; and a sister, Mary (Brian Joseph) Clark of Columbus, Ohio. He is also survived by nephews, David and Adam Clark-Joseph of Columbus, Ohio; and a niece, Sarah Clark of Watertown. He was preceded in death by his father, Andrew Hill Clark. A wake will be held for Steve at FYFE'S CORNER BISTRO (upstairs) on Sunday, July 29, 2001, starting at 2 p.m. Family and friends are welcome. Memorials may be made to the Cancer Research Institute to support research in the Midwest.
